time, but it has been fun being your only Jeff (not really)

Dear Don,
Good luck to a good grub at W.H.S.

Jack '62"
"I hope"

Dear Don,
It has been swell
knowing a little of you.
May you have the best of success at W.H.S.

Love Sam

Don

Lots of luck to a shot
3rd basemen let's hope you do better next year.

"Rich"

Best of Luck to a real good kid. See you next year I hope.

Don (Wilby)

It's been nice knowing you this year and I hope to see you this summer. I was fun playing baseball with you this spring
~~even~~ though we made errors.
If you try hard you may make the team next year.

Your Pal
Wilby

Dear Don

I wish you the best of luck in your future years at Wyoming and have a good time this summer with the girls.
Pondy

Don
Good luck
to a sweet (2) kid.
Be see'n you!!!

better than you
Gene

Dear Don,
 I'll never forget your letter in my case in the best of luck in the best of luck. You takes as many years as it actually I should have started this school it is neighbor, but I didn't. Well have fun this summer and we'll be seeing you next year.

As ever,

THE MODERN VIKINGS

THE MODERN VIKINGS

ADVENTURES IN SOCIAL

ADVENTURES IN LEARNING PAGE

The sages of the original Vikings, of Norway, Sweden, and Iceland, may be compared with the progress of the modern Vikings of Wyoming High. Their constant search for new ideas caused them to advance their civilization more rapidly than any other people of that period.

The modern Vikings are seeking just as earnestly as the Vikings of the past. The Viking of Wyoming High advances as he explores the fields of learning, social relationships, and athletic rivalry. The training which he receives will serve as a guide and the basis for his growth in life.

MODERN VIKINGS

The modern Vikings are the students, faculty, and administration of Wyoming High. Their outlook on life is one of great anticipation. This was the attitude of Leif Ericson, and many other great Vikings, who left their homes in search of fresh discoveries and adventures.

They are the ones who will contribute their leadership to advancement in tomorrow's world.

FACULTY PROVIDES LEADERSHIP

Mr. JOSEPH BROZAK
Superintendent

B.S. Western Michigan University
M.A. University of Michigan

Joseph Brozak

Mr. Brozak, superintendent, and Mr. Davis, principal, make up the administrative office of Wyoming High. They are the source of leadership for the faculty and students alike. Without their direction and guidance our school would be far less significant.

The coordination of the school's program is a job which brings a challenge to the men in charge. To join studies and extracurricular activities into one program takes planning and hard work.

Communications between school and community, managing the financial department, and keeping the school records are only a few of the many problems that are faced by our administrative office.

The faculty of Wyoming High is another key to the school's, and the student's standard of values. Theirs is the job of training good citizens from the student body; this can only be accomplished by their personal interest in the students as individuals as well as a group. They set the example for good citizenship in both school and community.

A teacher's work day does not end at 3:36, when the bell ends sixth hour. Extra hours of work are needed to correct the endless pile of papers that continually confront them.

Through the faculty's leadership the students of today will become the competent, capable leaders of tomorrow.

Mrs. KENNETH FRYE

For the example she set, for the good will, the success we experienced through her efforts, and her dynamic personality, we will always remember Mrs. Kenneth (Joan) Frye, who was taken from us in the summer of 1958.

Under her direction the choir gave successful performances, produced operettas and won many first place ratings.

ADVENTURES IN LEARNING

The preparation a modern Viking receives is the foundation upon which his future career is based. The structure of his entire life is formed by the instruction and guidance given to him during these years at Wyoming High.

Just as the Vikings of old adapted to himself the knowledge and social standards of those whom he encountered so does the Viking of today; his knowledge is gained by experiences and experiments in the fields of science, literature, language, mathematics, and vocational skills.

Bob Whitford, Jerry Neuendorf, and Bud Bouma solve a problem in weights for physics.

Al Steil and Carol Van Rossum conduct a distilling experiment in general science.

SCIENCE IS AN EXPERIMENT

Dissecting a starfish in biology are Don Nichols and Dick Wagenaar

Strange smells, bubbling test tubes, and the chanting of wierd formulas are included in science and chemistry classes. The young "wizards" are learning the art of chemical reactions and experiments in weights and measures.

The science and chemistry classes, although not so wierd as this, are mysterious to the students who do not take them.

Chemistry and science provide a good background for many occupations, where one can receive a well paid job in laboratories or in research departments.

MATH IS CALCULATIONS

Sliderule, ruler, and compass are the tools of those students taking math. These, however, are not the only essential requirements. Math students must have good reasoning powers. They are confronted with many difficult problems which must be solved, such as proving of theories.

To pass this subject with good marks is an accomplishment. The final results of math are rewarding. For the student who makes good use of all that he has learned, will profit in the future.

Loren Huen and John Archer receive instructions from Mr. Braendle on measuring angles in solid geometry.

ENGLISH IS OUR LINK

English is our link with the intellectual past. Literature relates the valiant deeds of Caesar and the gentle song of Hiawatha, but without the proper background of grammar these stories and tales would mean very little.

English is not always the exciting world of entertainment that we desire. In fact, sometimes it is downright dull and uninteresting and we may think of it as the daily grind, with no future in diagramming sentences or learning what an adverbial phrase is.

David Livingston diagrams a sentence in freshman English.

Lynn Raven delivers a speech on British education in Speech class.

Connie Plasterer and Roger Ziel use a record of Canterbury Tales to show the changes in pronunciation in Senior English.

Joe Kramarz and Pete Vander Haar examine the costume of a Roman soldier worn by Mike Dolan in Latin class.

Spanish class watches closely while Mary Bean writes "Today is Tuesday, Tomorrow is Wednesday."

LANGUAGE

Spanish students write, speak, and read Spanish throughout the year. They learn the background of the language by studying the history of Spain and its people.

The high point of Latin class is the Roman Banquet. A lot of research is undertaken by the class on Roman food, costumes, and entertainment. They translate words, sentences, and phrases which helps them with the grammatical side of Latin.

SPEECH

Speech class has a varied and interesting program this year. The class held debates and it was from speech class that the debate team was chosen to compete with other schools.

The class put on a play for the Christmas assembly, and tried their hand at choral reading. All of the experiences were good practice for public speaking.

Members of the debate team Joe Kramarz, Lynn Raven, and Barbara Van Noord, discuss debate topic.

Mr. Kramer gives Glen Kellogg his world history notebook.

A KEY TO FREEDOM

An intense study of local government was set off when Wyoming Township became the City of Wyoming.

Social studies provide us with a political, economical, and historical background of local and national proportions.

"Freedom is gained through knowledge," is the idea behind social studies.

Drivers' training students are often surprised when they study the statistics on highway accidents, speeding, or stopping distances, to find that driving can be quite hazardous.

The purpose of drivers' training is to teach students the mechanics of a car and how to drive it.

Michael Hannum, Carole Dutmer, and Bob Berends make use of library reference material for United States history.

Mr. Wisner shows Lorraine Dreyer the fundamental uses of the instrument panel.

Bernard Monroe and Pat Ames post their results of the '58 election on the government class map as Ed Finn, Carol Ballard, and June Sabin read the returns in the "Herald."

Sharon Bulliment and Bill Turner post pictures on a world history bulletin board.

Dave DeLaat, Dick Drake, Ruthann Attwod cast votes in a mock gubernatorial election during civics class.

STUDENTS TRAIN FOR BUSINESS

In stenography, bookkeeping, typing, and all kinds of business affairs, students receive training which will prove to be invaluable in the complex world of business.

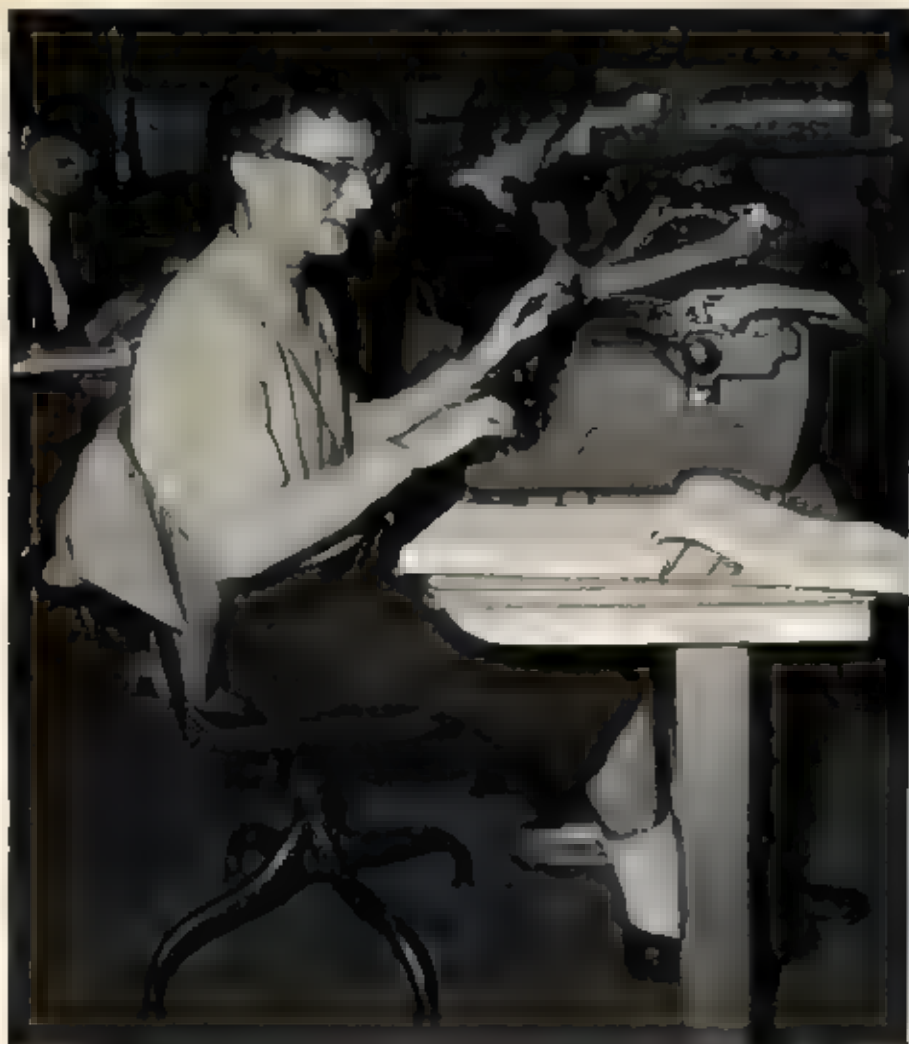

Knowledge of business matters, such as being able to keep an accurate record of transactions, or knowing how to make out a bank reconciliation, is an asset to everyone.

There are many openings in business management for those who have the training. Students taking commercial classes are encouraged to continue their work for opportunities in the business world.

Joyce Rooks types a letter from the dictaphone in stenography class.

Nancy Tatro remembers to keep her eyes on the copy while typing.

Judy Devries and Mary Jane Nichols make use of the adding machines in bookkeeping class.

ART PROVIDES OPPORTUNITIES TO CREATE

John Bos, Sue Kiel, Sheryl De Vries, and Mary Bloomer take part in the activities of the art class.

PLAYED ON

During half-time ceremony the blare of cornets, and the rhythmic beat of the base drum provided a background for the clever formations and "snappy" marching steps which the band performed.

But precision marching is not the bands only accomplishments. Under Mr. Lo Patin's direction they furnished the annual Christmas Program and Thanksgiving Program as well as many others.

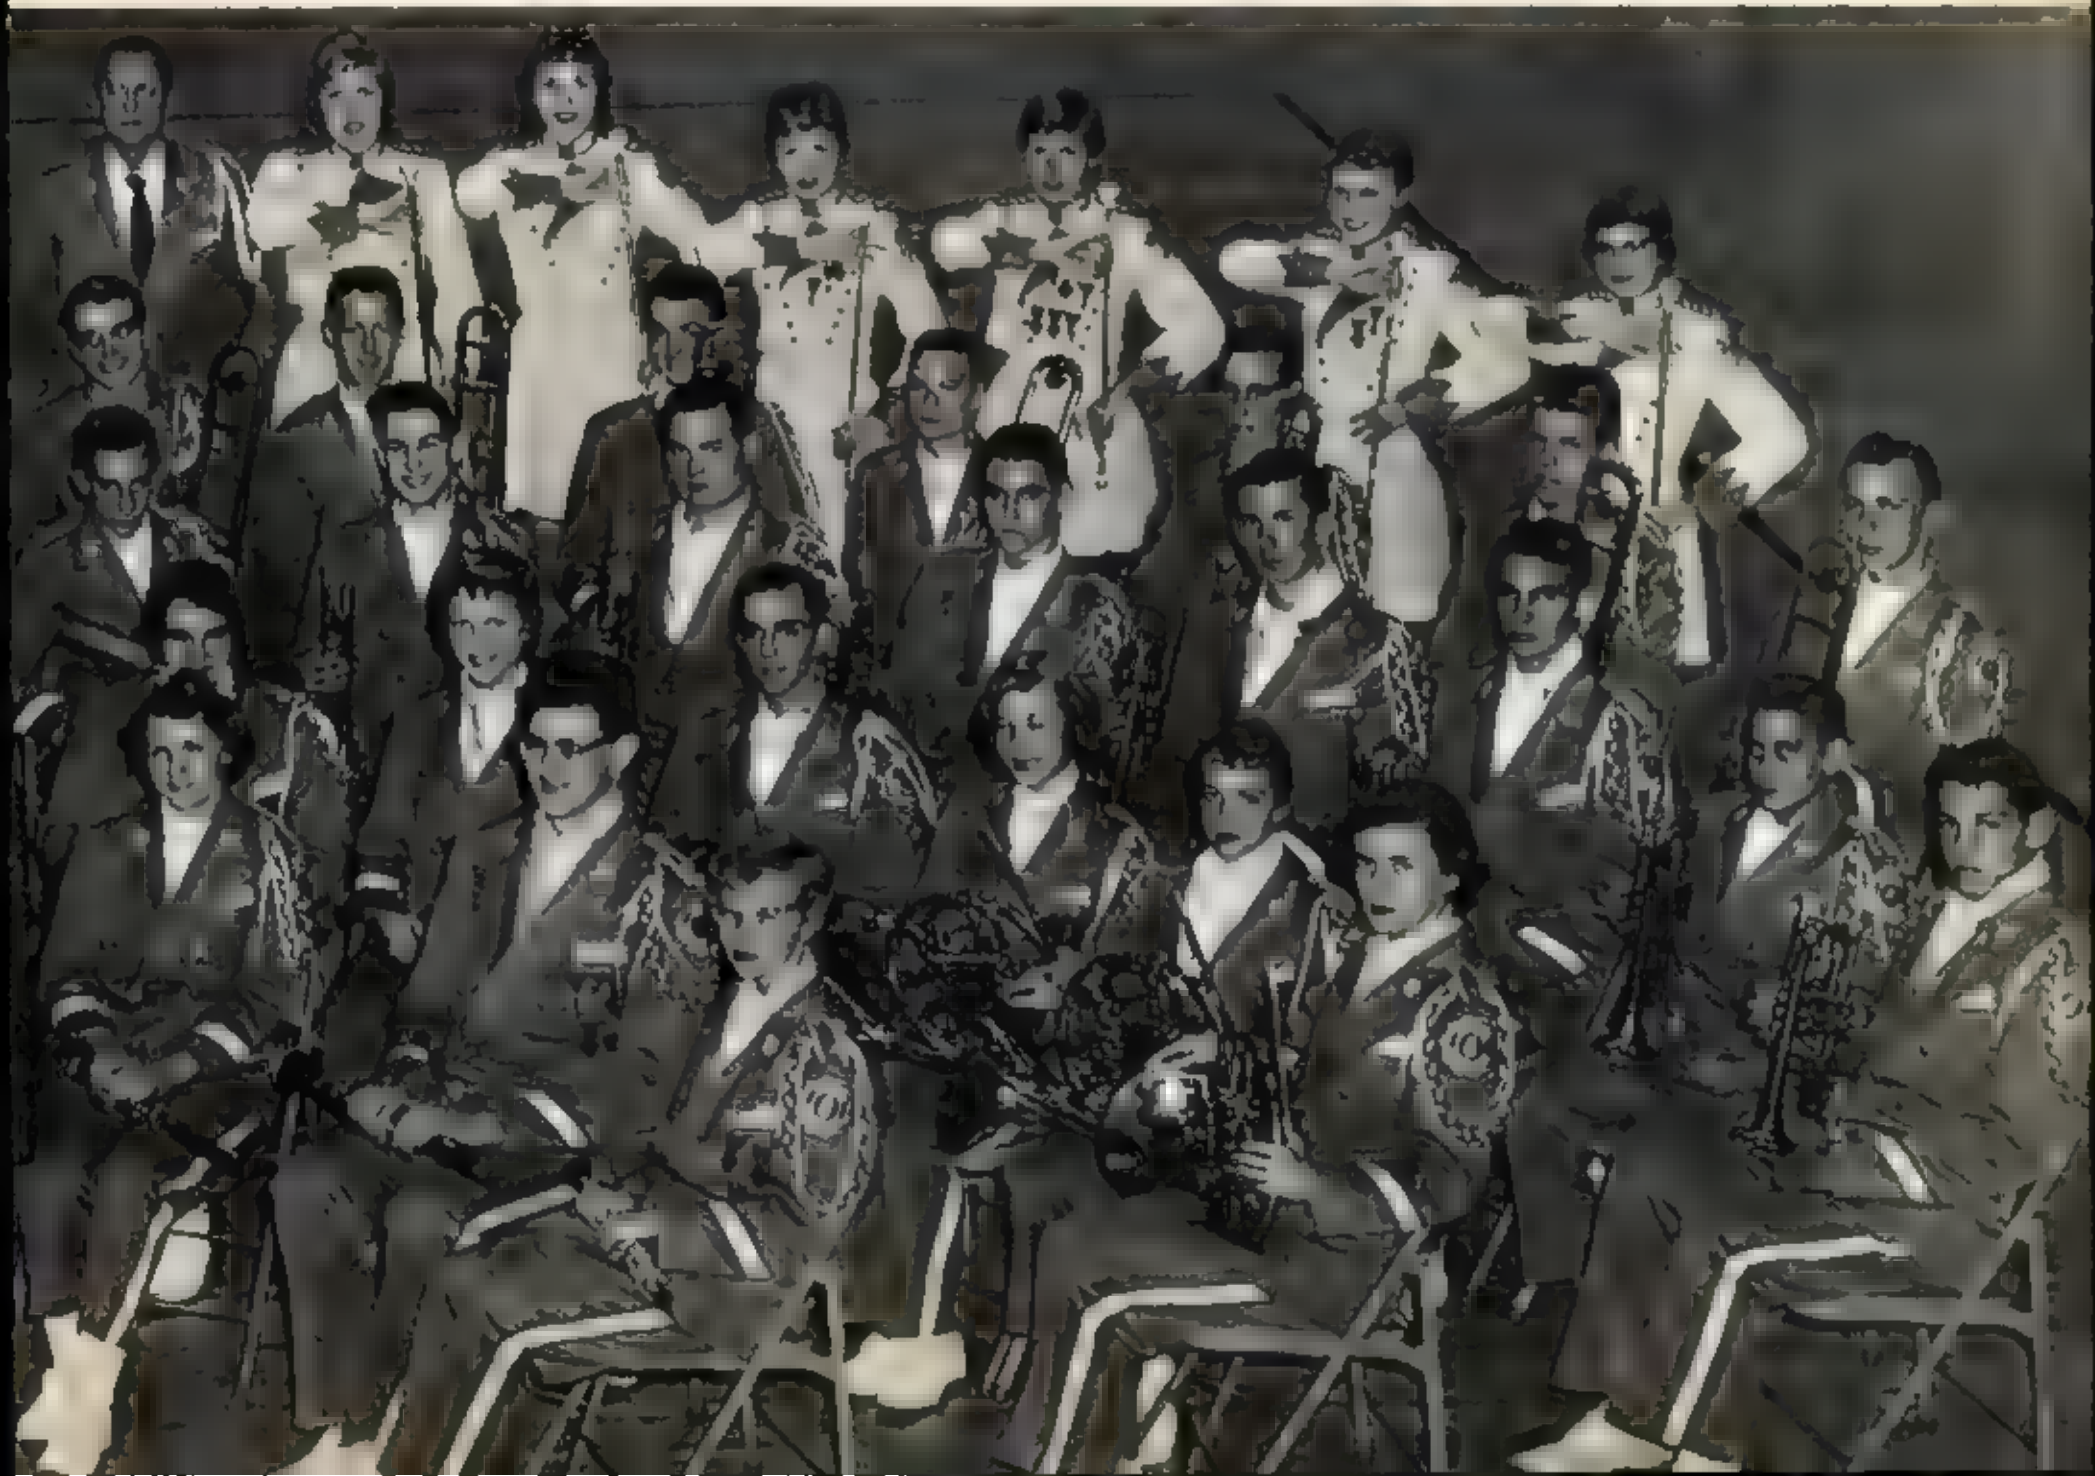

The Pep Band's rousing music stimulated school spirit at both pep assemblies and basketball games.

Colleen Bont, Bob Whitford, Sheryl Peterson, Howard Kyser, Judy Bennett, Barbara Ranson, and Carol Bond, members of the band council, confer on uniform braid.

ENTERTAINS

A welcome addition to the group assemblies, has been made. Mr. Ish, the new choir director, introduced a barbershop quartet into the choir program. This was the first year that this type of musical entertainment was attempted at Wyoming.

The choir's schedule of performances kept them very active. They performed at the Vesper Service at Lee High, The Grand Valley Vocal Festival, and a number of combined school assemblies with the band.

STUDENTS WORK WITH HANDS

Shop classes give students a chance to work with their hands, and to construct an object from a plan. The boys, who take shop, find they can be proud of good work, for it is an accomplishment to turn out a good end table, lamp, or metal project.

Metal shop is interesting and fun. Students learn to weld, braze, solder, and how to shape and work, different kinds of metals.

Machine drawing is difficult, for complicated machine parts must be drawn with accuracy. In architectural drawing, blueprints are made and detail drawings are made from house plans.

Don Mulder adds the finishing touches to the toboggan he has made.

TRAINING MAKES GOOD HOMEMAKERS

"Home Ec.," teaches girls to be better homemakers. The year is divided into cooking and sewing. From a cake to a full dinner; from an apron to a dress they learn the art of being a good homemaker.

Nursing and first aid are features of this subject also.

Miss Fenner, a student teacher from Michigan State, shows Donna Den Boer the correct method of sewing.

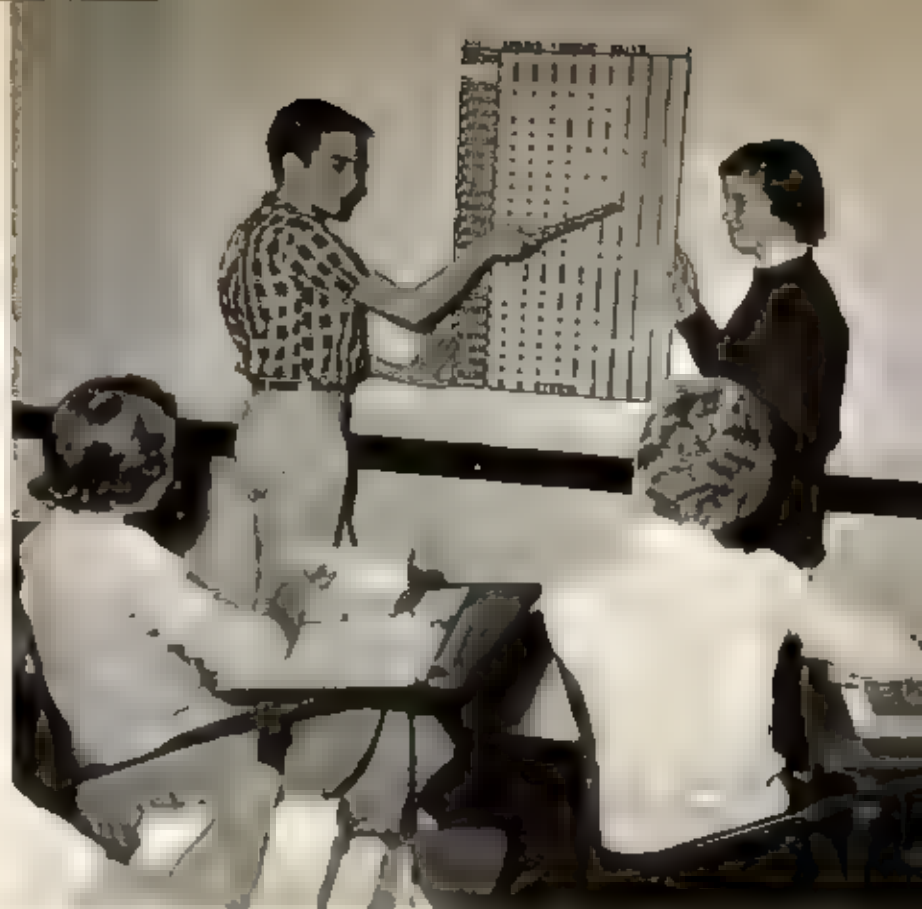

Barbara and Marcia Damstra, and Elizabeth Cozak prepare a lunch for home ec.

STUDENTS LEARN BASIC SKILLS

Pam Velders, Rick Smith, and Sharon Wallace conduct an experiment in seventh grade science.

Phil De Vries and Jean Appleby compare sales on a chart in eighth grade arithmetic.

Junior high students are taking an ever increasing interest in the activities of the senior high school. They have taken an active part in pep assemblies as well as in the social and athletic programs.

In these two years they are receiving the training which will enable them to play an important part in the high school world of tomorrow.

Jim Henry flies through the air with the greatest of ease in boys' gym class.

PHYSICAL FITNESS IMPROVES LEARNING

"A healthy body as well as a healthy mind," this is the aim of the physical education department. Physical fitness is a necessity if we wish to lead an active, well-balanced daily life.

Mr. Clinger and Miss Kalenda, the gym instructors, realize that a student who takes pleasure in his classes will benefit more from them. Sports, exercises, and contests are a few of the many things that make a gym class both fun and interesting.

Larry Schoonmaker exercises on a bar in boys' gym class.

Mary Wagner pounces on the trampoline to the admiration of her classmates.

Dave Carlton and Larry Abbott, copy editors, prepare for deadline.

Rex Harmon and Nancy Lovewell figure out a layout for the Orbit.

BEACON AND ORBIT SERVES STUDENTS

Donna Beak and Brian Cox accept and reject photographs for the yearbook.

The sound of clicking typewriters and the whirr of the mimeograph machine could be heard on Friday afternoon as the Journalism Class rushed to get the bi-weekly "Beacon" out on time.

Interviewing teachers and students for "beat-reports" was only one of the objectives that kept the class busy producing the "Beacon."

The "Orbit" also consumed much of the staff's time. Hours of after-school work went into making page layouts, writing copy, and preparing the pictures for the annual.

This 1959 "Orbit" is the result of a year's planning and effort; it is hoped that you enjoy it.

VALUABLE SERVICES OFFERED

The careful planning of Miss Rogers and her student assistants has made the library a source of ready knowledge and entertainment. The variety of books and magazines at our disposal satisfy our need for both cultural and pleasure reading.

Audio-Visual is another service which many of us have taken for granted. The hopeless maze of film catalogues, and the need for prompt delivery are a challenge to the members of A.V. Department and Mr. Overmire, the co-ordinator.

Bob Whitford and Judy Sutton set up a projector for A.V.

On the library staff are Marcia Hielkema, Beatrice Bosch, Janet Frary, Carol Stiel, Karen Hample.

ADVENTURES IN SOCIAL RELATIONSHIPS

The activities in which the Vikings participate at Wyoming, include clubs, organizations, and extra-curricular programs. The purpose of these activities is to offer the student opportunities to develop socially and intellectually.

The regular academic subjects of the school are only a part of the Vikings world. Through the various activities he receives the social experiences which are also an important factor in his development. Whatever the student's interest he is sure to have an opportunity for growth through the adventures of his day.

COUNCIL PROMOTES SPORTSMANSHIP

Student Council Officers: FRONT ROW, Judy Van Dyke, treasurer; Mary De Jonge, secretary; Ron Snyder, president; Sue Bassett, vice president. STANDING are Mr. Davis, advisor and Jerry Burrill, vice president.

The Student Council of Wyoming High School, with its various representatives of the student body, met together to discuss the problems, which arose during the school year, then proceeded to do something about the difficulty by examining the issue from every viewpoint. Mr. Davis's opinion was taken into consideration before the final decision was made; thereby the student-faculty relationship was strengthened.

Through the encouragement of the Student Council the students became aware of the importance of sportsmanship, and the fact that a discussion will settle far more than an argument.

SOCIETIES HONOR STUDENTS

The National Honor Society is a national organization designed to recognize the qualities of leadership ability, scholastic excellence, and good citizenship. The outstanding students, who qualify, are appointed for this honored position by the high school faculty.

A new honor society was organized in the field of music. "Modern Music Masters" honors the band and choir members who have made outstanding contributions to the school in music.

HORIZON CLUBS LEND A HAND

Sparkling Christmas lights, soft dance music, and an array of formal attire, highlight the Christmas season for the Horizon girls. The name of this annual Christmas dance, is the "Sparkle Spin."

But dances and parties are not the only activity of the Horizon club. Service to school and community are the real aims of these groups.

They are useful to the community by serving as nurses' aids and distributing money and gift packages to the underprivileged.

Jim Kidder, Jim Wierda, and Jerry Schuitman, conduct an experiment in static-electricity in the JETS Club under the direction of Mr. Luebbert.

JET CLUB EXPERIMENTS

The Junior Engineers Technological Society sent up their first rocket in the spring of 1958. Although the rocket did not hit the moon it was successful in that it rose high into the air. The Society, sponsored by Mr. Lubbert, experimented with new fuels and planned to fire other rockets.

In addition to conducting "count downs" the JETS also direct their interest to the fields of electricity and wind velocity.

In order to better understand the fundamentals of electricity they constructed a tesla coil, which produces low amperage static electricity. They also put an anemometer on the roof of the high school to gauge the velocity of the wind.

Phillip Balkema, Rick Goozen, and Bill Ferguson, adjust the equipment for Mike Dolan who studies the angle of light refraction.

Y. F. C. IS CHRISTIAN FELLOWSHIP

The Youth for Christ Club has become a popular organization in the extra-curricular program of the school. Under the guidance of faculty directors the club brings both special musical programs and guest speakers to the weekly meetings, every Wednesday noon. In addition the club also has daily prayer meetings.

The highpoint of the Bible Club's activities is the rally every Saturday night, where all Y.F.C. clubs from the Grand Rapids area join together for two hours of Christian fellowship.

VARSVITY CLUB PROMOTES SPORTSMANSHIP

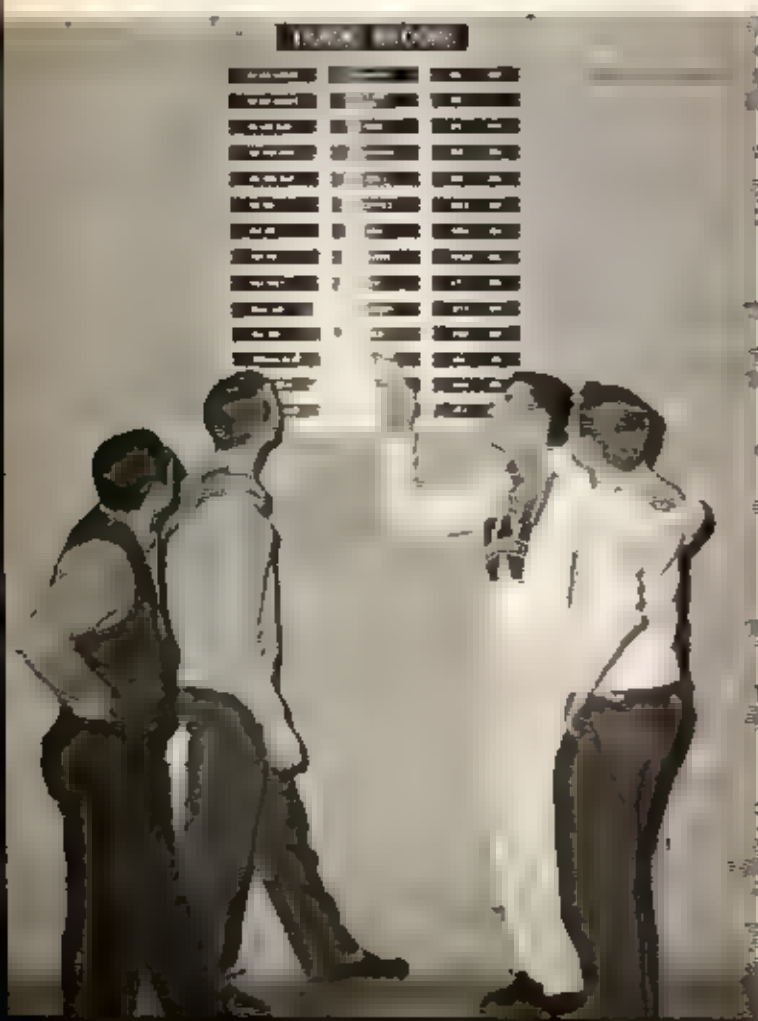

The Varsity Club is one of the clubs at Wyoming High which combines both recreational activities and a definite goal or purpose for its organization.

Their recreational functions were to assist the faculty in administering the intramural basketball program and the traditional initiation ceremony when the new members are put through an ordeal of eggs, raw oysters, and long hikes.

The club's primary aim is sportsmanship in all sports. Through its membership of letter winners, the Varsity Club strives to promote sportsmanship among players and spectators alike.

This year the Varsity Club members received blue and white varsity jackets with a large "W" on the front. This jacket serves as a badge of honor and respect for the best of Wyoming's athletes.

Varsity Club officers, Don Drake, vice pres., Roger Ziel, president, Ed Finn, sec.-treas., and Wayne Kidder, sergeant-at-arms, inspect the track record board which the club donated to the school.

Doughnuts and a Korean Chapel may not seem to have much in common to the average person, but to the boys of the Hi-Y Club they are practically interchangeable. The Wyoming Hi-Y Club, along with all the other clubs of the Michigan Hi-Y Association, contribute part of the money they earn toward the support of a chapel in Korea. The rest of the money is given to various other charities.

The boys also participate in sports, such as swimming, bowling, and basketball, at the Y.M.C.A. and this year they collected for the March of Dimes.

All these things are done in an effort to build "Christian minds and bodies."

"A MURDER HAS BEEN ARRANGED" BY THE SENIOR CLASS

Ghosts walked and spirits played on Halloween night in the St. James Theater. As the guests at Charles Jasper's birthday dinner watch terror-stricken, Maurice Mullins (Pete Vander Haar) resurrects Charles Jasper (Bob Whitford), whom he had poisoned, as a hallucination of his tortured, unbalanced mind and confesses the murder in a dramatic closing scene.

After years of comedies, Wyoming finally has given a purely dramatic play. True, the play, "A Murder Has Been Arranged," contained humor, such as Carole Dutmer's unforgettable characterization of Mrs. Wragg, or Larry Abbott (as Jimmy North) in his attempts to convince Mrs. Arthur (Marbo Turner) that he is a newspaper man, but the plot of the play depended on dramatic scenes which required convincing performances.

Presented November 20, by the senior class, the play was directed by Miss Spradlin. The cast also included Sharon Ehle as a woman, Judy Van Dyke as Beatrice Arthur, Sharon Hagan, as Miss Groze, and Jay Groendyk as Cavendish.

Maurice Mullins (Pete Vander Haar) shows fear as he sees the ghost of Charles Jasper (Bob Whitford) whom his tortured mind has brought to life.

JUNIORS PRESENT . . .

"A YOUNG MAN'S FANCY"

April 10 and 11 were two very big nights for the Junior class; on these nights their production of "A Young Man's Fancy" was given in the new gym. The setting was a co-educational summer camp in northern Connecticut. A rustic bunkhouse was the scene of the hilarious activity which took place throughout the three acts of the comedy.

The plot revolved around Dickie Crandall, played by Mike Hannum, and his attempts to promote a tender, but laughable love affair between Joe Kramarz and Sherry Postma, who portrayed Camp Freedom counselors.

Nancy De Puit played the part of Heler Greenly, a co-owner of the camp and firm believer in "progressive education." Her four major problems were in the form of Mike Dykstra, Ron Hazelwood, Orie Kalee, and Dave Carlton as Buddy, Jokey Stephen, Duvie, and Grilly. The boys' amusing antics ranged from sudden drenchings and falling bunks, to a slight brawl with boys from another camp.

The cast was rounded out by Merry Bean, Ruby Lemon, Bill Ferguson, Lynn Raven, Eileen Kerkstra, Linda Shannon, Pat Seth and Bob Livingston.

Under the direction of Miss Spradlin, the play was a success as both a money making project, and an experience for the students who took part in the production.

HOMECOMING IS HIGHLIGHT

Reigning at the annual homecoming dance were Joan Pace and Brian Cox. When the fight for the jug was half over, Joan was crowned queen.

Some of the highlights of the evening were the parade of floats, the half-time ceremonies, the football game, and the "Royalty Ball."

It was an evening of thrills and excitement for Wyoming's royalty and subjects as well.

Two floats were chosen winners for the evening, the junior float with the title, "Grind Those Dogs," and the sophomore float, with the caption, "Lets get the 'Bulldogs'!"

ADVENTURES IN ATHLETIC RIVALRY

Through the thrilling competition of athletics the modern Viking builds a healthy body, and gains an understanding of fair play and good sportsmanship. These are essential requirements for the development of the student's capabilities, both in personal relationships and physical fitness.

CHEERLEADERS INSPIRE TEAM

"Let's really hear you yell!" became a familiar phrase at pep assemblies and games as the cheerleaders did their best to stimulate school spirit. Their cheers inspired the teams to fight — and to win.

The unyielding spirit, and proficiency of both the first and second team cheerleaders made them one of the major factors in the success of the teams. They were always on hand to bring the team and spectators to their best when they were low in spirit or when our teams were behind on the score board.

TEAM SHOWS SPIRIT

Coach Braendle's tennis team has again shown the fighting spirit which made it a top contender in the Grand Valley standings.

The loss of many of the leading players of last year did not weaken the determination that carried them through the 1958 season.

Although the varsity squad had a discouraging season, they must be considered a success. They played not only to win but to obtain experience and benefit from the coordination of their efforts.

Brian Cox, Ed Finn, and Ron Snyder were all selected to be members of the all-conference teams.

From the spectator's point of view it was both an exciting and depressing season. The battle for the jug gave the fans a thrill that they will long remember; Wyoming led Grandville until the second half when Grandville pulled ahead to win 19-6.

VARSITY PLACES SECOND

Coach Kramer's varsity basketball squad fought to a second place tie, in league play, with Grandville, and Godwin, with a 6 win 4 loss record. Wyoming then went into the battle for the district championship. Wyoming's chances of winning in the districts were ended when they were defeated in the third game by East Grand Rapids with a score of 33—28.

Ed Finn and Earl Jenkinson were selected as members of the "All Valley" team by the coaches of the Grand Valley schools. Although Earl was forced to remain on the bench for three games, due to an elbow injury, he continued to show his skill in the following games. His height and scoring ability made him a double threat; he was able to control both backboards and shoot an average of 15% throughout the season. Wyoming will benefit from his support next year when they will be without the scoring and rebounding of Ed, who is a senior this year.

Howie Kyser gets set to shoot as Earl Jenkinson and Jerry Burrill set themselves for a rebound.

Ron Snyder makes a jump shot as Earl Jenkinson screens his man.
